

Dunapack winners on Hungaropack Packaging Competition 2022

The "glass roof transport packaging" developed in cooperation with Mosonpack Kft won the HUNGAROPACK 2022 grand prize. The applicants, István Németh (Mosonpack) and Gergely Felföldi (Dunapack), developed the packaging for the glass sunroof of the car, also using one of the previous developments of Ákos Dutka (Dunapack). The purpose of the packaging designed for the automotive customer was to replace wood- and plastic-based packaging with homogeneous corrugated paper packaging. During the design, they also created a unique insert system that matches each element of the multi-part product line. Thus, the packaging resulted in 40% cost savings for the manufacturer, and the "homogenization" of the packaging material resulted in a more efficient waste management process. The developed solution also provides the customer with a high degree of quantitative flexibility in deliveries, as well as more favorable storage options.

The plant seedling packaging insert, designed by Ildikó Bartók, also won the Hungaropack award. Its purpose is to ensure that the seedlings can be transported safely throughout the entire logistics chain. The essence of the application is the self-closing insert. The part of the material that bends over the pots contains cut-out circular arcs, leaving room for the plants to be comfortably positioned and not damaged during transport. The uniqueness of the product lies in the fact that the protective function of the heavy-duty, five-layer, fully overlapped box is strengthened even more by the insert. The insert solution that reaches the roof also prevents the box from moving in the vertical direction. It gives the seedlings a stable hold and prevents them from falling over. This packaging protects the plants even when dropped from a higher point. The material of the insert is made of 100% recycled material, no foreign material (adhesive tape) is used to seal it.
